Adam T. Mow is a shareholder at Jones Waldo Holbrook & McDonough. He represents architects, engineers, contractors, and other members of the construction industry in drafting, negotiating, and litigating construction contracts. Mr. Mow is also a licensed architect and a past-president of the Utah Chapter of the American Institute of Architects. He has been elected by his peers to the Utah Legal Elite since 2009.

Brad M. Liddell is an associate at Jones Waldo Holbrook & McDonough. His practice focuses on representing members of the construction industry, including design professionals, owners, and contractors. He represents clients in all phases of the construction process and is involved in both litigation and transactional work.

Jeffrey R. Handy is an associate attorney at the law firm of Babcock Scott & Babcock, P.C., in Salt Lake City. Mr. Handy's practice focuses on representing designers, general contractors, subcontractors, suppliers and other parties in a variety of construction-related contexts. He is a member of the Utah State Bar and is licensed to practice in state and federal courts in the State of Utah. Mr. Handy graduated from Brigham Young University and is a member of the Utah State Bar and currently serves as its chair.

Brian D. Bolinder is a shareholder at Richards Brandt Miller Nelson where he practices in the areas of construction law, insurance defense, and other complex litigation matters. After receiving his law degree in 2006 from the University of Utah, Mr. Bolinder represented architects, engineers, surveyors and other design professionals, as well as both horizontal and vertical contractors in connection with risk management, procurement, contracting and litigation. In addition, he represents individuals and companies in a broad range of industries with general litigation matters, including personal injury, products liability, and commercial contracts. His experience includes all aspects of litigation including bench and jury trials, as well as efforts towards achieving his clients' goals short of trial or formal litigation. Mr. Bolinder is a member of the State Bar of Utah (member and current vice-chair, Construction Law Section) and the State Bar of Wyoming.

Lincoln Harris is a shareholder in the law firm of Richards Brandt Miller Nelson, where his practice covers a wide range of dispute resolution and litigation matters within the areas of construction, liens, real estate, commercial leasing and family law. Mr. Harris regularly assists clients in the drafting, review, and negotiation of contracts. He has many years of experience and an excellent record representing his clients in mediation, arbitration and litigation. In addition to his law degree from the University of Utah, Mr. Harris has a Master of Public Administration degree. He previously worked for the City of Park City, and practiced law for several years in Kentucky working for the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund. He is a member of the State Bar of Utah (member, Construction Law Section, vice-chair, Construction Law Section) and the State Bar of Kentucky.
